Jennifer Yokoyama

Vice President, Chief IP Counsel and Deputy General Counsel
Microsoft Corporation

Jennifer Yokoyama is Vice President and Deputy General Counsel at Microsoft Corporation with responsibility for leading the company's Intellectual Property Group. In her current role as Chief IP Counsel, she leads a team of more than 100 attorneys, legal professionals and engineers responsible for Microsoft's extensive global patent portfolio, IP licensing, open innovation program and strategic collaboration with Microsoft business groups. Prior to this role, she was Microsoft's Associate General Counsel for IP Litigation, responsible for managing Microsoft's worldwide patent litigation docket and providing support and legal advice for her business partners throughout Microsoft as needed.

Jennifer's experience in IP and litigation spans the globe from numerous jurisdictions and venues across the United States to countries throughout the Asia Pacific region including China, Taiwan, Korea and Japan as well as in jurisdictions throughout Europe. Prior to joining Microsoft, Jennifer was Principal Counsel for Patent Litigation at Apple Inc. Prior to that, she was Assistant General Counsel for IP Litigation and Strategy at Nike. Jennifer started her career as a patent litigator in a corporate law firm where she was a partner in the Irvine office before she made the move to in-house positions.

She is a member of the Patent Bar. Jennifer received her BS degrees from University of California, San Diego where she double majored in biology and sociology. She received her JD, cum laude, from Georgetown University Law Center.
