Reggie Davis

General Counsel and Chief Legal Officer
DocuSign

Reggie Davis leads DocuSign's award-winning Legal and Risk Compliance teams in driving acceptance and adoption of DocuSign's System of Agreement and digital signatures across all business verticals and the public sector. As Chief Privacy and Compliance Officer as well as General Counsel, he spends much of his time focused on privacy, data and corporate authorizations and certifications. DocuSign recently went public as one of the largest historical IPOs in the SaaS vertical. Mr. Davis regularly hosts colloquiums at DocuSign on becoming "The Digital General Counsel," focusing on the digital transformation of the in-house practice of law and the impacts of AI, Blockchain, legal operations, eDiscovery, eBilling, etc.

In 2010, Mr. Davis was an award winner of The Recorder's "2010 Attorneys of the Year." In 2012, his team was named "Most Innovative Legal Team" by Inside Counsel magazine. In 2013, the Silicon Valley Business Journal honored Mr. Davis as "General Counsel of the Year." In May 2016, he was named "In-House Impact" General Counsel by The Recorder. In December 2016, he was named "Innovative General Counsel" by the Financial Times "North America Innovative Lawyers" report.

Prior to joining DocuSign, Mr. Davis served as General Counsel and EVP at Zynga. Prior to Zynga, he spent nine years at Yahoo!, where he served as Vice President, Search Operations, and before that as Associate General Counsel managing litigation, security and risk management. Prior to Yahoo!, Mr. Davis was a litigation partner at Hancock Rothert & Bunshoft (presently known as Duane Morris).

Mr. Davis received his J.D. from Tulane School of Law and his A.B. with Honors in European History and Sociology from Harvard University. He joined DocuSign after taking a year off from work, during which he backpacked around the world with his wife Rebecca and their four sons. The highlights of this family adventure were visiting tiger and elephant sanctuaries in Cambodia, Laos and Thailand.
