Fiona Robertson

General Counsel

OSN

Fiona is a highly accomplished and internationally recognized media lawyer with close to 30 years of hands on experience as in private practice and as in-house counsel. She is recognized globally for her unparalleled knowledge of media laws in the Middle East, having spent half of her career in the region, as well as her understanding of the complexities of commercial practice in the extended media sector. As General Counsel, Fiona works across all parts of the business, in close collaboration with key stakeholders. Fiona acts as company secretary to the board, actively leads a team of lawyers that support OSN in all legal, regulatory and contractual matters, and oversees the anti-piracy and content protection teams.
